(Pontificia Universidad Católica, Valparaíso, Chile)

*A new laboratory of dendrochronology in Valparaíso,
Chile: Expanding the tree-ring applications in South America*

Wednesday, October 28, 2015 - 12:00pm to 1:00pm

Room: Bannister 110

The breadth of geographic conditions, climatic variations, and dynamics of the landscape of Chile makes Chile a natural laboratory for the use of dendrochronology in several of its applications. In this talk, we will share some of the experiences that are taking place in the new Laboratory of Dendrochronology and Environmental Studies in the city of Valparaíso to study the dynamics of the environment in Chile.
